Друзі , сподіваюсь ви та ваші близькі прямо зараз в безпеці.

Особисто я зараз і найближчим часом буду в Києві.

У мене доволі цинічне питання. Розумію, що безпеки це зараз пріоритет. Але ...Наталю, ви не могли б вислати нам по максимуму що є по масиву.

В найгіршому сценарії ми передамо нвпівготові дані в архів Гезісу, щоб там вони не втратились. Ми зробили велику роботу і я не хочу щоб вона забулась чи загубилась через військову загрозу . Давайте збережемо що є максимально , щоб інші могли перехіатити естафету

Supporting Ukrainian research

The European Social Survey European Research Infrastructure Consortium (ESS ERIC) has implemented several measures to support higher education and research in Ukraine.

It was unanimously agreed by the ESS ERIC General Assembly last month that Ukraine will be invited to participate as a Guest country in the next three rounds of our survey for no fee.

Each country usually funds their own participation based on a formula that considers the country's gross domestic product (GDP), but this fee will be waived for Ukraine in rounds 11, 12 and 13.

Each participating country sends a national representative to the ESS ERIC General Assembly, which meets twice a year to discuss operational matters.

At the 21st meeting of the General Assembly in The Netherlands last month, a working group of national representatives was established to discuss how to support the Ukrainian national team – and Ukrainian research – further.

As well as these new measures of support, ESS host institute City, University of London recently announced the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding with the Kyiv School of Economics (KSE).

The agreement makes City one of a growing coalition of higher education partners across the world showing solidarity and extending practical support to help Ukraine overcome the devastating consequences of war.

Researchers at the Kyiv School of Economics form part of our Ukrainian national team, and the institute is a member of the Ukrainian Global University which represents a range of institutions.
